The speculative feeling on the Stock Exchange was rery spirited at the commencement of business, and the signs of a steady upward movement were unmistaka-sle. It was argued that stocks, although nom-nally selling, with the exception of Eric and Illinois Central, at about the prices current antecedent to the recent monetary disturbance, were irtually lower, in consequence of the advance of the gold premium, and that a proportionate rise in prices should follow in order to adjust values upon their former it was found that the supply of money was equal to the demands of the brokers a very confident feeling precalled among the bulls. There was a strong demand for Cleveland and Pittsburg, Michigan Southern, Fort Wayne and Reading—all of which advanced rapidly, ut particularly the first mentioned, which is vidently cornered, 92 having been bid for at five o'clock. Michigan Southern is in favor as an nta two clock. Michigan Southern is in two as an investment, more than for speculative purposes. Its earnings show the largest increase of any leading Western road excepting Milwaukee and St. Paul—those for $72,520 for the same time last year, the increase being $24,776 Eris alone is weak, owing to a notorious person, connected with the manage-ment of the road, selling calls of the stock at seventyone, available during the next sixty days for on one, available during the next many days for one per cent. But we opine that this sagacious individual will ultimately be about as successful in controlling Eric as the Treasury was lately in controlling gold, or as a certain old lady was in sweeping the Atlantic out of her front parior during a high tide. Meanwhile, however, he will probably discredit the company it is his duty to support to the best of his ability.

For foreign exchange it was difficult to obtain quotations: but bankers' bills at three days on England were held at 111 %, and those at sixty days at 109 %.

It is reported that a small amount of the five-twenties and Eric Railway shares, recently retorned from Europe, for sale nere upon limits, were reshipped to-day, the rapid rise in gold having defeated the object of the foreign shippers. It is generally believed, and very reasonably, that after the arrival in England of the twenty millions of gold we have lately sent, there will be a great rebound from the recent depression in the prices of securities of all descriptions, but especially our own. We have proved all descriptions, but especially our own. We have proved a pillar of strength to the Old World in responding so promptly to her necessities, and although our gold will ar-rive long after the panic has committed its ravages it will be none the less useful in replenishing empty coffers and restoring confidence generally. The arrival of so much gold from the United States will indeed be a great sensation and as welcome as an abundant harvest following an appalling famins. The semi-bank-rupt nations of Continental Europe will look with wonder rupt nations of Continental Europe will look with wonder upon the prodigal shipments of coin from a country in a state of suspension after passing through the greatest war in the world's history. But this is only one side of the picture. The gold we have lost is to us a source of weakness and not of strength. The spendthrift may fling away his substance as recklessly as the Treasury sold its gold at 130, and he, too, will make a sensation and a show; but it is only until his resources are exhausted, when he disappears from his pedestal, like a gourd.

May 26.—The United States against the Scamer Stephen Hart.—This was a suit in prize brought in 1862, the vessel being then condemned. An appeal was subsequently brought before the United States Supreme Court, and the decree of the lower court was affirmed; following which a motion was this day made and granted that the proceeds and interest, amounting to over $300,000, be withdrawn from the Sub-Treasury of the United states and paid into court for distribution. THE NATIONAL GUARD.

Letivity Among the Militie During Past Week-Parades, Drills and Re-views-Recent Changes in the National

The past week has been a period of considerable ac-tivity among the militia, since Monday last scarcely a day having passed without witnessing some movement of interest—either parade, drill or review—which have interest—either parade, drill or review—which have reflected much credit upon the efficiency of the National Guard, while their appearance in our public streets has elicited the bighest encomiums. The first of our field days which has yet taken place this season was, as already reported, held by the Fourth brigade, at East New York, on last Thursday. The energy exhibited by Brigadier General Aspinwall, in being first in the field upon this occasion, has, it would seem, excited a spirit of emulation among other corps, and created no little comment on the tardiness of others in issuing orders for brigade drill throughout the First division.

brigade drill throughout the First division.

With the exception of the Second infantry brigade and the cavalry brigade of that division there ere no orders the cavary brigade of that division there are no cross for field exercise yet issued. There is certainly a dilatoriness somewhere on the part of the militis generals in not fulfilling the regulations on this point, which require that brigade and regimental drill be held at least once a year. The officers of the First brigade consider that they are growing custy for want of such military exercise, as their command have had no field day for the past two years. Last summer the Seventy-first regi-ment had an inspection and a drill in Union square, but

The Twelfth regiment made a fine appearance in Wash ington square on last Tuesday, numbering three hundred men. A dress parade was held, and the manual of arms was gone through with fair precision. The street firing, in which they were exercised after the parade, was not so creditable, which might be attributable to want of practice, and that can be corrected by the company commandants practice, and that can be corrected by the company commandants.

On Wednesday last the parade of the Seventy-first and twenty-third regiments, on the occasion of the inaugural of the Vosburgh monument, erected to the memory of the first colonel of the Seventy-first, was a fine turnout. Both regiments looked admirable and gained the approbation of all who witnessed their soldierty bearing along the route. The Fourieenth regiment (Brooklyn) commemorated the fifth anniversary of their muster into the United States stryice by a grand parade on the afternoon of Wednesday. They made a unique and brilliant appearance, their bright colored uniforms being for the greater part new. The Easyor and Common Council reviewed the veterans in front of the City Hall, after which they marched through the principal streets of the city and then held a dress parade on Fort Green, at which a great number of spectators were present.

Preparatory to the brigade drill the right wing of the Eleventh regiment held a drill at the Staty Arsenal on Monday evening, which was but an indifferent affair, the exercise in firing being very poorly executed. This fact was evinced in their want of regularity in their firing at East New York. In drill of the left wing, which took place Tuesday, was a very slight improvement on that of the preceding evening.

took place Tuesday, was a very slight improvement on that of the preceding evening.

FIRST BRIGADE CAVALRY.

The first field day of this brigade will take place at East New York, on Monday, the 7th of June, pursuant to orders from the Brigader General. At an election to fill the office of colonel of the Third regiment cavalry, held at the regimental armory, on Thursday, 24th inst., Leutenant Colonel John H. Budke was unanimously elected colonel, whereupon an election for lieutenant colonel followed, Adjutant D. Gelis being elected leutenant colonel. General Postley presided at the election. The Second brigade, Colonel Burger commanding, will, pursuant to orders previously published, proceed to East New York to-morrow morning, where they will be exercised in the schools of the company, battalion and brigade, as laid down in the orders. Major General Sandford will review the troops at four o'clock in the afternoon. A line parade may therefore be looked for.

The Ninth regiment, Colonel J. H. Wilcox, will parade to-morrow to celebrate the lifth anniversary of the departure of the regiment for the seat of war, and assombles at the regimental armory in Thirty-sixth street, at haif-past two P. M., and will be reviewed in the Park at four.
